JUST FOR KIDS

Activity Book

Collect at least four Yellowstone Park stickers for a free gift. Pick up a Kid's Activity Book at any Xanterra dining room. Contains games, coloring pages and other fun activities.

Junior Ranger Program

Introduce your kids to the natural wonders of Yellowstone and their role in preserving them for the future. The Junior Ranger Program is free to children ages 5-12. Stop in at any National Park Service Visitor Center to enroll. After kids complete the requirements, they are awarded an official Yellowstone Junior Ranger patch by a park ranger!

Young Scientist Program

Students can become Young Scientists! Purchase your self-guided booklet for $5 at the Old Faithful Visitor Center (for ages 5 and up) or Canyon Visitor Center (ages 10 and up). You'll investigate the mysteries of Yellowstone by following activities in the Visitor Center and field. Once your investigation is complete, you will be awarded an official Young Scientist patch or key chain. This program is funded by the National Science Foundation through a grant to the Yellowstone Park Foundation.

RANGER-LED PROGRAMS

Join a Yellowstone Park Ranger for educational programs including talks, walks, evening campfire programs and other activities. Programs are presented from Memorial Day weekend through September and during the winter season. Check at NPS Visitor Center desks, in the Yellowstone Today newspaper (distributed at the entrance station when you arrived) or online at www.nps.gov/yell for more information on these programs.

www.YellowstoneNationalParkLodges.com

PRIVATE CUSTOM TOURS

We can build a special touring itinerary to meet your specific interests. You, your family and/or group of friends can spend the day or days on a private tour, going to places you want to go, based on your timing. You can leave the driving to us. We'll pick you up and drop you off at your in-park hotel/campground or gateway town. The touring vehicles include 4-passenger autos, 12-passenger vans, 13-passenger historic Yellow Buses and 36-passenger buses. Stop by the activities desk or call us at 307-344-5437 for further information and reservations.

RAINY DAY IDEAS

- Visit a National Park Visitor Center and spend some quality time enjoying the exhibits and video programs.
- Pick up your mementos in the hotel gift shop while it's wet outside.
- Play a game. Puzzles and playing cards are available in the gift shop.
- Take a tour. While driving you can play "I Spy" with the family - how many different animals can you find? How many different license plates can you find?
- Select a comfy chair in the lobby of any of our hotels and curl up with a good book. Forgot your reading material? Our gift shop can help.
- The animals don't care if it's raining, why should you? Summer showers in Yellowstone are usually brief and refreshing, and can produce amazing rainbows. Grab your raincoat and enjoy Mother Nature at her finest.

Don't just see Yellowstone. Experience it.

ON YOUR OWN

Take time to visit one or all of the Visitor Centers. Each has a unique theme and a Yellowstone Association book store. National Park Visitor Centers are located at:

- Mammoth Hot Springs - The Albright Visitor Center and Museum and all the red-roofed, many-chimneyed houses down the street from it were built by the U.S. Cavalry as Fort Yellowstone, an army post dedicated to protecting the national park. The Visitor Center houses a small museum with its major theme being the early history of Yellowstone. The museum also displays Thomas Moran artwork and William Henry Jackson photos. There is a theater in the Visitor Center showing video presentations every half hour in summer and on request in winter.

- Norris Area - The Museum of the National Park Ranger is located at the entrance to the Norris Campground. Formerly the Norris Soldier Station, exhibits in the building depict the development of the park ranger profession, from its roots in the military tradition and early Rangers to the present array of NPS staff specialized duties. The Norris Geyser Basin Museum features information on thermal features and is located on the main walkway to the geyser basin.

- Madison - The Madison Information Station was built in 1929-30. This small building currently houses the Junior Ranger Station and a Yellowstone Association book store.

- Old Faithful - The Old Faithful Visitor Education Center, which opened in 2010, contains exciting new interactive exhibits explaining Yellowstone's rare thermal features and a Young Scientist room for visitors of all ages. The theater features frequent showings of park videos. Stop at the Visitor Education Center for the next prediction for Old Faithful Geyser and a few other geysers or call 307-344-2751.

- Grant Village - The theme of the Grant Village Visitor Center is the fires of 1988 and the role of fire in Yellowstone. It has a theater with a presentation titled, 10 Years After the Fire.

- Fishing Bridge - The Fishing Bridge Visitor Center and Museum is located one mile east of Fishing Bridge Junction on the East Entrance Road. Built in 1931, it is a National Historic Landmark and houses historic bird specimens and other animal mounts.

- Canyon Village - The Canyon Visitor Education Center features Yellowstone's supervolcano concept. Through interactive exhibits, animations, audio-visuals and real-time scientific data you will gain understanding about how Yellowstone's volcano, its geysers, hot springs and geologic history affects all life here.

- West Yellowstone Information Center - The West Yellowstone Visitor Information Center is located outside the West Entrance of the park and is managed jointly with the West Yellowstone Chamber of Commerce and the US Forest Service. It is a good location for visitors to get oriented to the park, forests and businesses available in the area.

Wildlife Watching in Lamar or Hayden Valley

We think Lamar Valley and Hayden Valley are gorgeous (the animals seem to like it there, too). Depending on the season, elk, bison, bears, coyotes, pronghorns, eagles and wolves might be spotted. You may want to take along a lunch, just in case you decide to stay for a while. Leave early for the best chance of experiencing a beautiful Yellowstone sunrise and seeing the wildlife at their most active time of the day. Evenings are also great for wildlife viewing! Lamar Valley is a scenic 1+ hour drive toward the Northeast gate from Mammoth. Hayden Valley is a 10-minute drive south from Canyon Village or a 20-minute drive north from Lake Hotel.

Star Gaze

If you ask anyone around here, we'll tell you that Yellowstone is about as close to heaven as you can get (in fact, it's a local call). When the stars come out it seems you can reach out and touch them. When the moon shines brightly on Old Faithful or Yellowstone Lake the night becomes even more magical. Get out there and take a leisurely starlit stroll you'll never forget. (Be sure to watch for wildlife.)

www.YellowstoneNationalParkLodges.com

WHEELCHAIR ACCESSIBLE VEHICLES

We do have vehicles that are equipped to accommodate wheelchairs that may be used for tours with a 48-hour advance notice.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Yellowstone's National Park Service is improving our roads, and there may be some temporary closures and delays you should know about. Check the Yellowstone Today newspaper you received at the gate, stop by any NPS Visitor Center, or call the National Park Service at 307-344-2117 for details.

Ecologix Information

Xanterra's mission is to provide Legendary Hospitality with a Softer Footprint, and we take our role in environmental stewardship very seriously. Through our Ecologix program, we incorporate sustainable practices in all aspects of our operations to reduce the impacts from fossil fuel consumption and work to educate our employees and guest on their individual environmental responsibility. During your stay, you can participate in this environmental commitment by helping us protect Yellowstone in the following ways:

Recycle:

For your convenience, we offer recycling containers for plastic, paper, glass, cardboard, steel and aluminum in all of our guest rooms. Recycling bins are also located at campgrounds and public areas throughout the park. With help from visitors like you, last year we recycled nearly two million pounds of material and diverted more than 70% of our waste from entering local landfills!

Choose Green:

When shopping in our retail gift shops, look for our "Sustain the Earth" logo which designates products that are more environmentally friendly. And be sure to use a reusable bag and a reusable water bottle (if you left yours at home, we have affordable options for you)! Our restaurants also offer a variety of sustainable choices including locally produced products and Rainforest Alliance certified coffee.

Conserve Energy:

When staying in the park's guest rooms, take advantage of the linen reuse program and be sure to turn off lights and heat when you leave the room. Be Green at Home: Stewardship does not end at the national park borders. You can help protect Yellowstone and other national parks from the impacts of climate change and pollution by continuing these environmental practices at home.

For more information on Xanterra's commitment to environmental sustainability, we invite you to review our Sustainability Report located in most rooms and lodging front desks. You can also find more information on our programs and what YOU can do to protect Yellowstone and all of our National Parks for future generations by scanning the QR code below with your smartphone.

Animals In The Park

MAMMAL LOCATION MAP

Use the map above to help find these big mammals, and the list on the next page to check off all the mammals - big and small - while visiting Yellowstone National Park.

Illustrations and information provided by the NPS

HIKING SAFETY

Minimize your risks of a bear encounter by making loud noises, shouting, or singing. Hike in groups of 3 or more and use caution where vision is obstructed. Do not hike after dark. Avoid carcasses; bears often defend this source of food. Obtain more information by visiting a Ranger Station.

Animals In The Park

ANIMALS IN THE PARK

More than 60 mammals live in Yellowstone, and the 8 to the left are the ones most visitors want to see. The map to the left shows the most likely places to see the big mammals, but what you see will vary with the weather, season, and behavior of the animals. You might see these and other animals in other places in the park, or you might not see any at all. Enjoy looking for and watching wildlife.

BE CAREFUL

Wild animals are dangerous. To protect yourself and wildlife, follow these guidelines whether you are alone or in a wildlife jam:

- Park in a turnout and make sure your car is completely off the road.
- Put your vehicle into park and engage your parking brake
- Stay near your vehicle so you can retreat if the animal approaches
- Do not stand in the road
- Never surround, crowd, approach, or follow wildlife
- Don't block an animal's line of travel
- Do not run or move suddenly - this may cause predators to attack
- If other people in the area are putting you in danger, leave the scene and/or notify a park ranger
- Do not ever feed wildlife, including birds

QUICK COMPARE: CANIDS

Fox

- Red fur, dark legs
- 9-12 pounds

Coyote

- Tan to gray fur
- 25-35 pounds

Thermal Features In Yellowstone

FOUR TYPES OF THERMAL FEATURES

Geyser: A geyser is a hot spring with the intriguing habit of tossing underground water in the air. It's the equivalent of a giant pressure cooker; even though the temperature of water deep down may be well above boiling, the weight and pressure of the water above prevents that boiling from happening. Eventually, though, the pressure builds enough to push the water in the upper reaches up and out, causing an overflow. That overflow, in turn, relieves the pressure on the super-heated water below, causing it to flash into steam. That flash, that explosion through a narrow, constricted place in the rocks, is what sends water shooting into the air.

Hot Spring: Hot springs are similar to geysers, but they have no constrictions in their plumbing. Convection prevents water from reaching the temperature needed to set off the chain reaction leading to an eruption. The many beautiful colors you see in hot springs are caused by light refraction, suspended mineral particles, and heat-loving microorganisms.

Fumarole (also called a steam vent): In simplest terms, a fumarole is a vent in the Earth's crust. Modest amounts of groundwater come into contact with hot rocks underground and are turned to steam. This steam rushes up through a series of crack and fissures and out the vent, sometimes with enough force to create a loud hiss or roar.

Mudpot: Mudpots occur in places where microorganisms help convert hydrogen sulfide, which rises from deep within the earth, into sulfuric acid. The acid dissolves surrounding rock into clay, which mixes with rising steam and groundwater to form mud of varying colors and consistencies.

HIKING AROUND THE PARK AND THERMAL FEATURES

We invite you to spend a few hours hiking the area's scenic trails. The thin ground in the thermal areas breaks easily, and often overlies scalding water. Stay on the trail. There are numerous trails suitable for day hiking. Begin your hike by stopping at a Ranger Station or Visitor Center for information. Trail conditions may change suddenly and unexpectedly. Bear activity, rain or snow storms, high water, and fires may temporarily close trails. At a minimum, carry water, a raincoat or poncho, a warm hat, insect repellent, sunscreen, and a first aid kit. It is recommended that you hike with another person. No permit is required for day hiking.

WHAT ARE THOSE COLORS?

The vivid colors are the result of pigmented bacteria in the microbial mats that grow around the edges of the mineral-rich water. The bacteria produce multiple colors; the amount of color in the microbial mats depends on the ratio of chlorophyll to carotenoids and on the temperature of the water which favors one bacterium over another.
